Every quilter has a masterpiece inside.

The Bulletin Board

- From Marlene Oddie: If anyone is planning on going to the Buggy Barn show on August 24 ....could you let me know? Given the fires and WA21 closure, the Grand Coulee gang will likely not come to guild meeting this Monday. I'd like to get my Challenge to someone to submit at Ferry Co. fair if you'd be willing and it works out that we could meet on Sunday the 24th at Buggy Barn. Thanks for considering.
- From Shawna Shaw: I will be doing the 3-D window class Sept. 20. It will cost 50.00 and I have a supplies list. My number is 509 216-1293.

July Minutes

Secretary

Lorna Johnson,

Due to unavoidable circumstances, there are no minutes from July.

Refreshments:

As usual at our Christmas in July potlucks, food was both plentiful and fantastic. Rumor has it that wheelbarrows will be requested at future gatherings of this type in order for everyone to be safely returned to their vehicles.

Program:

After our overindulgence at the dining tables we waddled slowly to the Sewing Room for a very short meeting and great fun at the gift exchange.

Confessions of a Fabricholic

by Nancy Morris

I have been known to be a real cranky pants when it comes to patterns. There are a ton of pattern makers out there. It seems that almost everyone is jumping on the band wagon and designing patterns. I don't mind paying the price, but I want something that I can figure out when I try to make something. I have even been known to call up the pattern maker and demand to know what's up. I once called up Jackie Robinson to ask her why in the world she came up with a finished block size of 6 and ¼ inches. She had no good answer.

Last Wednesday Karlene and I made an impulse trip to Omak to get the ingredients for a Mini Professional Tote. You know we were desperate because it was 105 degrees in Omak. Of course Needlelyn Time is air conditioned, Thank Goodness! So we were quite comfortable while we mulled over handles, d-rings, interfacing, zippers and of course some yummy fabrics. We only took time to have lunch at the Breadline (also airconditioned) and then made a beeline for home and a few degrees cooler.

Back to my earlier rant, I have to say that the Mini Professional Tote is a wonderful example of how to write a pattern. This is a complicated pattern. Believe me, whoever did this pattern thought of everything. If there was the slightest question of how something should go together, there were pictures and drawings and step by step instructions. While it might be the kind of bag that you would want to take a class on, if you have made several bags it all made perfect sense. I am nearly done with it and I know that it is going to be my new favorite bag. I'm going to make another one. I can only improve on my zipper techniques.

Hope you are keeping cool!
